British Army Has Big Legal Problem

LONDON (AP)—Britain's legal authorities admitted today that the new army game—getting out of the armed services—had them momentarily stopped.

The big question is how to halt legally the stampede.

So far, 245 persons have registered as candidates for two vacant seats in the House of Commons. The vast majority are servicemen.

Someone discovered that by running for Commons, a serviceman is automatically excused from further duty.

The government decided to rush through a new law that would dam the deluge of armed forces candidates. But drafting the law isn't as easy as it sounded.

The government has encountered legal complications. Some of its best legal brains have yet to find a solution to safeguard the interests of all.

CHRISTMAS ON MARROW-BONE RIDGE

Donny Dugan had an idea. He rigged a pot, hanging from a tripod of sticks, and set it up in the tiny square.

"A Christmas pot, to put in any extra coins, so that there might be a few toys for the kids!" he told the people.

"Wonderful!" they all said. "We've hardly ever had a Christmas with toys for the youngsters!"

Home Is Cleaned Out Of Cash by Burglars

HEWLETT HARBOR, N.Y. (AP)—Better a dirty home than a cleaned-out one, Louis Lieberbaum must be thinking.

Detectives today are investigating a burglary at Lieberbaum's Long Island home here. He estimated the loss at $5,000 to $10,000 in cash, $2,000 to $3,000 in bonds, and about $15,000 in jewelry.

Lieberbaum, a New York City stockbroker, wanted to keep his home clean while he and his wife attended an out-of-town dinner. So, he said, they locked their German shepherd in a room so he wouldn't dirty the house.

When the Lieberbaums returned, the home was clean. It also was cleaned out of a 200-pound wall safe which burglars first being included in the popularity parade.

Pueblo Health Office Probe To Be Asked

PUEBLO (UPI)—Dale Hill, from the local health department said he also would ask the city chairman of the Pueblo City and County Health Department, said today he would ask Gov. elect John Love to investigate the State Health Department.

Hill said his request would be based on the state department's decision to withhold state funds.

He said the state department is not a physician.

"I think the City and County of Pueblo is being forced into a position of state dictatorship," Hill said.

He said he would ask Love to appoint a fact finding committee to look into the organization of the State Health Department. He said he would ask the city and county attorneys to work together to explore possible legal action against the department.

MACHINE TRAPS MAN
DENVER (UPI)—Epifanio Fierro, 40, of Denver, was in critical condition at Denver General Hospital today after his left leg was amputated in a crushing machine.

Police said Fierro, an employee of the Denver Rendering Co., was pushing meat scraps into a crushing machine when his leg became caught. A company official said the meat scraps are used in the preparation of animal food.

President Kennedy's inaugural address contained only 1,355 words. The average of 44 previous inaugural talks was 2,499 words.

THEY'RE TOPS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Among the most favored living Christmas trees are the Norway spruce and Scotch pine, with some balsam firs being included in the popularity parade.

Brigitte Bardot Fails to Capture Satisfied Life

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA)—The haunting loneliness will probably be with her until she is an old woman. The anguish of never seeing a friend in a crowd of friends, of finding no love among a dozen lovers: such is the fate of Brigitte Bardot, 28.

She caused it, but does not welcome it. She profits from it, but has no need for the money which flows her way in abundance.

Predictions for Bardot's future are strangely confusing—even to Bardot herself. At one moment she says, "Why should I stop working?" Then the rumor springs up that she is interested in retirement, where she can look after her infant son by her second marriage. Then comes a report that she craves a stage career.

The romantic life of the French sex symbol is no less tangled. She is divorced from Roger Vadim, her first husband, but continues on friendly terms with him and even provides him with financial help from time to time.

She has just opened divorce proceedings against No. 2, Jacques Charrier, 26. The charge he left her conjugal home.

Her current interest is actor Sam Frey. The day after her divorce appearance she testified in court in behalf of Frey, who was accused of a French magazine for publishing a story entitled "The Man Who Is Destroying BB."

Bardot is frank about her personal life. She said:

"I have had many lovers since I divorced Vadim. It has been said that I was wicked. But it is not a matter of wickedness; it is a matter of affection or tenderness.

"For me, the only existence that counts—apart from my own—is that of a man. But which man? When I feel depressed I clutch at the support nearest at hand. But as I get older I am learning to pull myself together and to cope with things alone."

Bardot fans claim that she not only continues to be the highest expression of the "body beautiful" in her latest film, "The Warrior's Rest," but also shows that she has come some distance as an actress.

The screen play of this film is adapted from an ultra-realistic novel by Christine Rochefort. Apparently a parentographical, it was a sensational best seller.

Bardot plays an emancipated, attractive Parisienne who journeys to a small town to claim a modest inheritance from an aunt. In a small hotel she stumbles by mistake into the wrong bedroom to discover a young man (Robert Hossein) apparently dying from an overdose of drugs. She saves his life, but discovers that he is a sadist and a drunkard. Nonetheless, she falls in love with him.

Naturally, no Bardot film would be satisfactory without some nude scenes. There are four in this film which is directed by No. 1 husband Vadim.

Vadim, who propelled Bardot to stardom, does not believe there can be another BB, and that she may be the last of the film stars of mythical stature.

"It is, of course, difficult to say," remarked Vadim, "but Brigitte is not something you can easily repeat. It may well be that the star concept will be finished in a few years' time."

"Brigitte acts better now than she ever did, but she will never be a great actress. She has worked hard, but she can never be anything else but herself. She says and does things with a feeling that is all her own."

Hal Boyle's Cat Has Great Time Before Christmas

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK AP—They say Christmas is for kids. But it is also a great time for cats.

In our house the cat we belong to seems to get more downright enjoyment out of Christmas than people.

During most of the year I have a secret guilty feeling that our cat, Lady Dottie, is somewhat cheated by life. She spends her time, except for a brief stroll in the corridor early in the morning and late at night, cooped up in our apartment.

It is a big deal for her when a daring, high-flying sparrow lights in the window ledge of our eighth-floor apartment, and flirts its wings saucily. Then Lady Dottie is suddenly transformed from a sedate old maid into a maddened beast.

She loses all her ordinary poise and aplomb and beats at the window wildly until the sparrow shrugs its feathers as if to say: "Well, it takes all kinds to make a world—and flies away."

Outside of these occasional adventures with sparrows, Lady Dottie derives her greatest thrill from Christmas.

It turns her from a cool, plush sophisticate into a cawky, wide-eyed kitten.

Like a child at Christmas, she won't let you hide anything from her. She is into everything.

She races to the door when the mailman or delivery man comes. She sniffs and sniffs at every package. She tried to undo the strings with busy paws.

"Why don't you grow up, Lady Dottie," I tell her. "After all, man husband had more good news years ago getting along in years. Why don't you get your act together. Lady Dottie pays no attention to me."

at all. Christmas makes her feel young, and she has an idea that the whole worldwide yuletide pageant is put on exclusively for her benefit.

One of her great joys when we open a box. She leaps into it, bats the crinkly paper around to hear the sound, then lies down and turns on the inside motor of her delight and emits a mighty purr.

But her happiness reaches a zenith when we put up our two Christmas trees, and turn on the lights. We usually decorate two trees: a tall live one green with needles and a small artificial tree with aluminum branches that someone gave us years ago.

Lady Dottie watches gravely as we put each ornament into place, interrupting us now and then to nibble tentatively at a green branch or an aluminum needle.

When the job is finally completed and the children down the hall come in to inspect it, Lady Dottie leads them on proud feet from one tree to the other, as if to say:

"See what I did!"

At the end of the season, as I take down the decorations, Lady Dottie watches me with sad, reproachful eyes, and I have the weird feeling that I am in some way hurting the idealism of a small child.

Critics Scoff At Review of U. S. Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Ky, who recently urged creation of a high-level committee to make he believed the President's action foreign aid today scoffed at President Kennedy's newly ordered review of the program.

Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., chairman of the House subcommittee that handles foreign aid appropriations, was not impressed with the review, interpreted as an effort to strengthen the administration's hand when it goes before Congress next year to argue for funds.

"They have taken a new, hard look every year since it started," Passman declared, "and that's 16 years ago. Men haven't seen the 31-year-old program."

Passman told UPI that similar old studies have been made in the past under the Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations, "but the cost still goes up, fiscal limb shop last Friday for new leg. He told the guard up, up."

Kennedy named a top-level, bipartisan committee to immediately review the aid program to determine whether it contributes "materially" to the security of the United States.

To head the non-governmental group, the President chose Gen. Lucius Clay, who served recently as his representative in West Berlin.

Mexico City is said to be the oldest modern city in America.

Wheat and Feed Grain Federal Changes Sought

ATLANTA (AP) —The resolutions committee of the convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation recommended here changes in federal programs affecting wheat and feed grains.

A policy statement to be considered by convention delegates from 49 states also called upon the government to keep hands off a broad list of commodities not subject to federal regulations.

The recommendations by commodities included:

Wheat — Suggested that producers reject at a forthcoming referendum a new multiple price plan for this grain — a plan authorized by the 1962 farm act. One price would prevail for wheat used domestically for food and for export and a lower one for wheat used for other purposes.

The committee said this plan requires rigid controls and maintains unrealistic high prices.

"Fortunately for farmers consumers, and all taxpayers, wheat producers can defeat this plan by voting 'no,'" the committee said.

The committee would offer instead a program lifting all controls from wheat and lowering price supports to the average world price of wheat during the preceding three years or 50 per cent of the parity price goal of federal farm programs, whichever is higher. This would put wheat supports at around $1.40 a bushel compared with the present $2.

The committee said such a program would tend to place wheat production in areas best able to produce it efficiently.

Feed Grains — Urged abandonment of present so-called emergency feed grain programs under which price supports and payments are offered producers reducing plantings. The objective is to reduce grain surpluses.

The committee also recommended lower feed grain price supports. The latter would be set at the higher of (1) 90 per cent of the average price received by farmers during the immediately preceding three years, or (2) 50 per cent of the parity price goal. In the case of corn, this would mean supports at around 95 cents a bushel compared with $1.20 this year.

FUNDS FOR KING

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) —Entertainers Sammy Davis Jr. and Peter Lawford tonight will lead a fund-raising "Westchester Salute for Martin Luther King Jr." here.

The civil rights leader will be honored at the program which seeks to raise $25,000 for civil rights work in the South. King is president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Mr. Shnool's Zoo By LUCRECE BEALE

CHAPTER NINE THE GIRAFFES WEAR HATS

Mr. Shnool rushed to the bird cage. It was empty. A large pane of glass in the ceiling had been broken and the curious birds had escaped one by one.

Sending for workmen, Mr. Shnool ordered them to repair the glass at once. Then he and the attendants snatched up nets and sacks of feed and went to hunt for the birds.

A pigmy owl was found fast asleep, perched on the rebar cage. He was easily captured and returned to the cage. Mr. Shnool spied several peacocks strolling down the penguins' walk. He spread a trail of seed and coaxed them back to their cage. The flamingoes, their pink feathers fluffed by the wind, were found huddled on the steps of the elephant house. They were very glad to follow Mr. Shnool back home.

But when all these creatures were back in the cage there were hundreds of small birds still missing. They had flown to the tops of the highest trees where they sat shivering with cold and fright. Mr. Shnool and his men climbed the trees but no sooner would they reach out with nets than off the birds would flutter to another branch.

Ladders were brought but when they were raised they only frightened the nervous birds off to entirely different trees.

The men got a huge net and held it under a tree. The strongest men climbed up the trunk and shook the branches with all their might. But not even one small bird fell into the net.

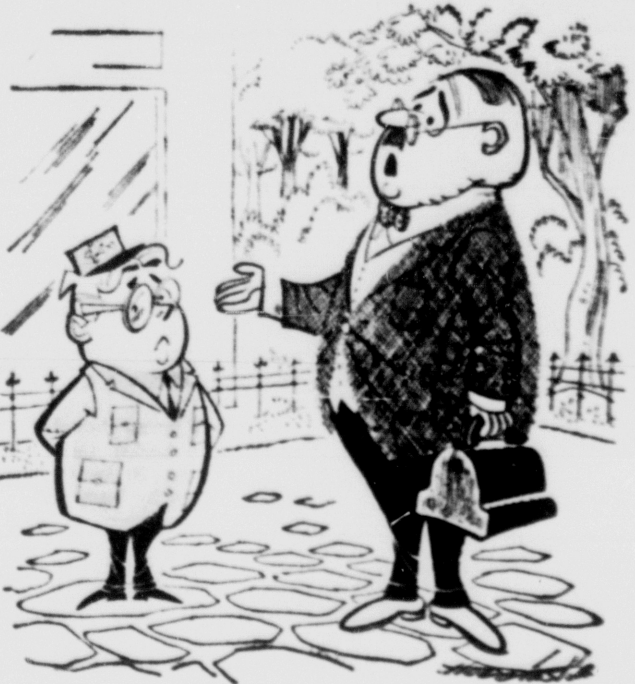

Mr. Shnool did not know what to do next. He knew that if the birds stayed outdoors a little longer they would freeze. He beat his hands together and rubbed his head and tried and tried to think what he might do.

Crookshank came along and shook his head at the sight of the birds in the trees. "How unfortunate to lose them just before the visit of the queen," said he.

"It's not the queen I care about," retorted Mr. Shnool. "It's the birds themselves!" He went off under the trees, biting his lip and pulling his ear and twisting his mouth until suddenly he knew what he had to do.

He rushed off to the bear cages and slipped into the brown bears' cave. Honeybun, snoozing there, woke up and gave him a big bear hug. Mr. Shnool said, "Excuse me, Honeybun, I haven't time to play right now." He pushed her gently away. Then he shut his eyes and stood on his head and wiggled his goes and said "Selbuort Gnippop!" three times.

He got back on his feet and looked around. There was only Honeybun sitting back on her haunches with her jaws wide open to show off her dinosaur teeth. Mr. Shnool was too upset to praise her as she wished. He slipped out of the cave and looked all around but there was no one there. Only bears.

Mr. Shnool was terribly disappointed. He hadn't known exactly what to expect but he had been pretty sure Santa Claus would appear as soon as he had said the magic words.

As he went back to the birds he thought, "All is lost! They won't last another hour." The zoo doctor was there and he agreed that things looked bad. "Even if we could get them now," he said. "They will have terrible colds and could not last."

They all stood about feeling sad and helpless. Suddenly one of the men shouted and pointed down the road. "Look yonder! The giraffes are out!"

They all turned and stared. Here came Herbert and Louise ambling down the road. They had baskets of straw strapped on their backs and on the tops of their heads they wore enormous round hats tilted between their ears.

"The zoo is haunted!" exclaimed one of the men. "First the bear, then the birds, now the giraffes wearing hats! There's trouble everywhere!"

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet minister of merchant marine,

Viktor Bakayev, paid tribute to Premier Khrushchev today as "the chief captain of the country of the Soviets" for piloting the country safely through the Cuban crisis.

Bakayev, before the Supreme Soviet, denounced the American blockade of Cuba as a "crude violation" of freedom of the seas.

The median real estate tax bill in the nation's principal cities this year averages $306 per family compared with a median of $110 per family in 1945, the U.S. Savings and Loan League has reported.

CLAY CENTER, Neb. (AP) — Robert Hafer, Sterling, Colorado trucker, was bound over to District Court here on three charges of obtaining wheat under false pretenses.

Hafer was freed on $5,000 bond set by Judge Lisle Hannon.

Jay Sullivan, Clay County attorney, said the charge was based on the taking of seven loads of wheat from elevators at Clay Center, Fairfield and Sutton.

Sullivan said that truckers claiming to represent a Colorado grain company had taken the wheat. When bills were submitted to the company, the elevators were told that no wheat had been ordered.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are checking into the case, Sullivan said. He reported about 12,000 bushels of grain had been taken from the three Clay County elevators and from elevators at Blue Hill and Hordville.

Direct JFK Phone Line to Nikita Urged by Dean

2—Installation of permanent observation posts at railway junctions, ports, key highway intersections and large airfields plus observation by aircraft, mobile ground teams or overlapping radar systems to guard against sneak mobilization.

3—Exchange of military missions by the major powers as a confidence-building measure.

4—Communications links between major capitals to prevent war by miscalculation. A hot telephone between Washington and Moscow—or "purple line" as it is sometimes called—would fall in this category.

5—Studies of the ways in which modern weapons themselves might tend to touch off a war.

6—The various countries would make public the steps they had taken individually to prevent war by accident.

Dean stressed that all the proposals were subject to informal discussions and study to fill in details. He proposed that technical groups be established to do some of this work.

units associated with the offensive weapons will be withdrawn in due course.

But this left a lot to be pinned down. Among other things, it is not known here whether the Kremlin considered the short range anti-aircraft missiles in Cuba to be protection for the longer range offensive weapons—and therefore now intends to withdraw them.

Originally, the administration expressed the view that the Soviet military personnel entering Cuba were advisers and technicians, not troops.

Kennedy said on Aug. 28 that "we have no evidence of troops" in Cuba, and on Sept. 13, at the last news conference before the crisis, he was still referring to technicians.

The prevailing opinion in the administration was that the Cuban buildup was defensive. The anti-aircraft and other weapons had been identified as similar to those the Russians had sent to Indonesia. The Indonesian shipments were accompanied by technicians skilled in matters like training and maintenance, but not Soviet combat troops, it was stated.

The Washington assessment changed fast with the discovery of the offensive weapons in Cuba. The Russians themselves were found to be setting up the missile sites, and presumably they would man the missiles.

Soon afterward, a number of Soviet ground combat units were reported found to have arrived in Cuba. These, it was presumed here, were for protection of the offensive weapons. Nonetheless, they were definitely troops in the terminology used by U.S. authorities.

Thus U.S. officials label the Soviet military personnel in Cuba as troops.

Some reports indicate that the personnel originally sent to Cuba as rocket experts have been reformed into regular army units now that their offensive weapons have been withdrawn.

Some officials feel that there was nothing surprising about this—that it's a routine military procedure for personnel under such circumstances and does not indicate the missilemen will be kept in Cuba as ground combat troops.

top negotiator—Director William E. Simkin of the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service—to sit at a joint bargaining session to day between representatives of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union Local 6 and the Publishers Association of New York.

But, asked if either side had changed its position on wages and fringe benefits since the strike began early last Saturday, Simkin replied:

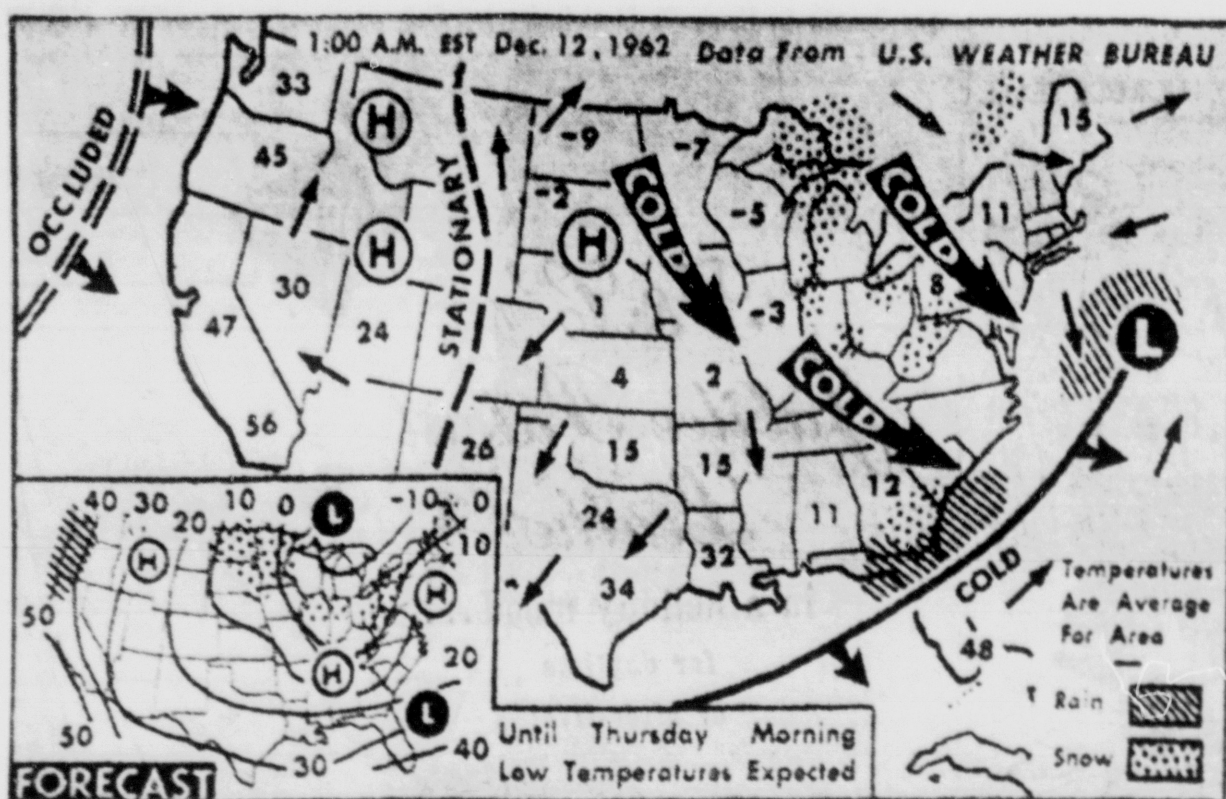

"Not fundamentally."

The ITU's 3,000 printers on the nine dailies seek an $18.45 weekly wage increase over two years to bring base pay to $159.45, plus a shorter work week and other fringe benefits.

The publishers have offered the $8 increase over two years accepted by the Guild after the News strike, plus fringe benefits they estimated to be worth an additional $1.20 a week.

The printers struck four of the dailies Saturday, but the others closed down voluntarily. Idled were nearly 20,000 employees of the Times, Herald Tribune, Daily News, Mirror, Post, Journal-American, World-Telegram & Sun, Long Island Press and Long Island Star-Journal.

50-Year-Old Time Capsule Will Be Removed

Amid the noise of an air compressor, a special ceremony is scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday in the Arcade at Manitou Springs, which will highlight the removal of a 50-year-old "time capsule" from under layers of cement.

However there is still a variety of opinion as to whether or not the box containing assorted historic documents will actually be removed from its resting place of half-a-century.

The El Paso County Pioneers Assn. has written instructions to remove the box this year and tentative plans are to recover, display and add to its contents prior to burying it for another 50 years.

When the association advised the City Council of their intentions, Mayor Earl Pitcock and council members endorsed the plan and offered the services of city employees to drill for the box which had been located by an Army mine detector.

The council has been advised by the Manitou Springs Mineral Water Co., owner of the land where the box rests, that they may proceed with the digging with one stipulation.

If the historic 10-ton boulder which marks the eastern end of the Ute Pass Trail must be "disturbed" to get to the box, the attempt to recover the time capsule must stop.

Officials estimate that the box can be recovered without moving the huge boulder because it lies approximately two feet in front of the box—depth unknown.

the Khrushchev speech appeared to have a defensive tone. He remarked that there was no question of who won in the Cuban crisis, saying that "sanity and the cause of peace" were the winners.

Khrushchev's warning came after he had claimed the Soviet Union had prevented an attack on Cuba by "aggressive circles" of the United States to avert "the direct threat of a thermonuclear world war."

The Soviet leader, in a major foreign policy speech, called for "renunciation of war among states as a means of settling international disputes (and) their solution through negotiations."

Khrushchev called the solution of the Caribbean crisis "a major victory for the policy of peace," but he repeatedly attacked "the aggressive circles of imperialism."

And in an obvious retort to the Chinese Communists, who criticize the Soviet backdown in Cuba, Khrushchev asserted:

"Events have confirmed that the peace forces are able to overcome the most dangerous international crisis, to curb the imperialist aggressors."

Seated in a place of honor on the rostrum was President Tito of Yugoslavia, who was branded as a "traitor to world communism," a week ago by the Red Chinese. Carlos Rodriguez, head of a Cuban trade delegation which arrived here Monday, was also on the rostrum.

Khrushchev coupled his call again for peaceful coexistence between East and West with a charge "imperialist aggressors" were stirring up international tensions with threats and a warning that the Soviet Union had rockets to "reply to a blow by our enemies with a lightning smashing blow."

He outlined in detail the progress of negotiations conducted by urgent letters with President Kennedy, and declared at one point, "If the other side had not shown restraint, an explosion would have followed."

During the first hour of his speech he made one brief reference to Germany, saying the problem should be settled by treaty and the Berlin affair should be settled on the basis of that treaty.

But he avoided repeating a

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today)

Another in a series of record-breaking cold outbreaks that this winter season has produced was introduced a week ahead of its official start to the vast territory from the Plains to the Atlantic today.

This is one of the greatest outpourings of Arctic air ever to invade the country during any December in history and many long-standing records for cold have been shattered.

The leading edge of the bitter cold set off light rains and even some snow as it pushed through southern Georgia and down into central Florida at sunrise.

Hard freeze warnings had been issued for Florida tonight as far south as the Everglades, which will endanger the citrus and vegetable crops.

Snow flurry activity was still in progress along the shores of the Great Lakes and thru the Appalachians from West Virginia to New England, and as much as six to eight more inches of snow is forecast to blanket hard-hit portions of northeast Ohio during the day.

Along the snow-clogged shores of Lake Michigan, the community of Watervliet has had almost three feet of snow in the past two days.

Temperatures plunged to zero or lower deep into the Southland thru Kentucky, Tennessee and northern Arkansas, northward from the eastern Plains to the Appalachians.

At Bemidji, Minn., the mercury fell to 21 below, while way south at Bowling Green, Ky., it hit five below. Numerous records for this date fell by the wayside from the Mississippi to the Appalachians and an all-time low mark for December chilled residents of Nashville, Tenn., as it dropped to three below zero.

Jackson, Miss., with 15, and Chattanooga, Tenn., with three, tied their records for December, and Birmingham, Ala., missed their all-time low for the month by only four-tenths of a degree as it went to a frigid 5.6 degrees.

It was also quite cold thru the Plateau region and the Rockies as clear skies and calm winds allowed the temperature to drop well below freezing.

Milder 40s and 50s occurred under cloudy skies thru Arizona and a few showers sprinkled in that area. Dense fog cloaked inland valleys thru northern Utah and southern Idaho as well as along the Oregon coastline, inland to the Cascades.

The rest of the West was enjoying clear weather in most cases but a storm moving toward the north Pacific coast threatened that area with gales and rain later in the day.

Owners of property where McKee took refuge during his trek have indicated they may not press charges if restitution is made for damage done. This could eliminate possible criminal charges lodged against him.

"We are working very hard to overcome this danger," the general confided. However, he said he had classified information that an answer to this problem "will be coming along."

He said no means was yet developed for coping with this need but added he did not consider the submarine threat serious as yet.

Gerhart, in referring to the new fighter, added there was "nothing in this country's fighter inventory that could be improved enough to meet the need of the future."

He said NORAD also was working on defense against hostile military satellites as well as a possible attack from global enemy missiles from around the South Pole.

He said he did not regard an attack by enemy armed satellites as a "serious threat as yet," adding:

Subzero Cold Grips Wide Areas of U.S.

second day of freezing temperatures in the state.

In Columbus, Ohio a water main broke in the downtown section and businesses, stores, eating places and homes were without water for hours. Many schools were closed in the —1 temperature.

In the northeastern section of Ohio, an overnight snowfall of from 8 to 16 inches brought new snow to hundreds of thousands of residents.

Scores of towns throughout the area were buried under snow ranging from 20 to 48 inches. Drifts shaped by biting winds in subzero temperatures piled up to depths of 6 and 8 feet.

Ohio state guardsmen were pressed into emergency work, clearing roadways with huge, powerful mechanical equipment. And they were shutting nurses and doctors from their homes to hospitals.

New snow and bitter cold covered Pennsylvania, Michigan, West Virginia and upper New York State.

Between 24 and 30 inches of snow fell overnight at Fulton, N.Y., and schools and public buildings were shut down. The temperature fell to —10 at Broomville, —7 at Watertown and Elmira, —5 at Poughkeepsie and 19 in New York City.

In the West Virginia mountains, snow fell again in sections where drifts have reached depths of some 20 feet. Subzero readings were general throughout the state. At Flat Top it was —10. Huntington had —4 and Charleston zero.

More than 12 inches of new snow fell over western Michigan amid subzero temperatures. Scores of communities had more than 2 feet of snow on the ground. At Ludington there was a blanket of 45 inches of snow. New Buffalo got a new snowfall of 15 inches and Grand Haven 15 inches.

Light snow fell over Virginia, and temperatures dropped to —6 at Bluefield and —3 at Bristol.

Up to 14 inches of new snow fell in Maryland and in Garrett County the mercury dipped to —11.

Scores of communities in Kentucky reported below zero readings. The lowest was —9 at London. Louisville had 3 above.

Chicago had a record —7, but the coldest reporting point in Illinois was Glenview, a suburb north of Chicago, which had —12.

In Iowa, record lows also fell. Boone had —15, Waukon and Le Mars —13.

Moscow Arrest May Mark New Expulsion Wave

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has charged that British and American intelligence services have wormed their way into its central science administration.

A Russian scientific worker has been arrested on charges of selling secret material.

The Russian, O. V. Penkovsky, had been working for British and American intelligence since last year. Tass news agency said Tuesday night, and had an elaborate set of spy equipment in his possession when Soviet security agents seized him.

Diplomatic sources said Penkovsky was head of the foreign committee of the Soviet State Committee on Coordination of Scientific Research.

A British businessman and two U.S. Embassy staff members were specifically accused of buying or receiving secret information from Penkovsky on scientific, technical, political and military matters.

Tass said the Russian also had been in touch with other British and American officials and diplomatic agents. This raised the possibility that some more Britons and Americans may be expelled from the Soviet Union.

The Americans mentioned were Richard Carl Jacob, 26, secretary-archivist at the U.S. Embassy until he was expelled from the Soviet Union last month on spying charges, and a staff member named only as "Karlson."

The assistant agricultural attaché since last spring has been Rodney Carlson.

The British businessman named was Greville Wynne, arrested in Hungary Nov. 2 and now awaiting trial in Moscow on spying charges.

Soviet authorities also arrested Jacob Nov. 2 and ordered him out of the country Nov. 5. They charged he was taking secret material from an apartment house mail box when apprehended.

Jacob, now at work for the State Department in Washington, said he never heard of Penkovsky and that Moscow's charges were absurd.

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. Embassy here or from the State Department on the charges.

Soviet authorities said Wynne pleaded guilty to the spy charges. His wife is expected from England soon to visit him.

Tass said Penkovsky, when seized, had three miniature cameras, code books, secret ink, radio equipment, foreign addresses and other spy paraphernalia, as well as a forged Soviet internal passport that would have permitted him to go underground.

'Time Capsule' Ceremonies Slated at Police Building

Ceremonies for placing a time capsule in the new police building and emergency control center, City Manager John M. Berry, will be held at 10:45 a.m. Friday, according to Jack Roeser, president of the Historical Society of the Pikes Peak Region.

The copper-colored capsule, filled with historic documents of 1962 and the past, is to be placed in the masonry work below the window sill in the southwest corner in the entrance foyer to the building. The entrance is on Kowa Street just opposite the City Auditorium.

A memorial plaque naming the building in honor of the late Police Chief I. B. Bruce will be placed on the wall above the time capsule at a later date when the building is formally dedicated.

Roeser said more than 130 documents will go into the capsule, and a few more may be added by the time the ceremony is held. The documents pertain to the region as well as the city.

In addition to Roeser, others

Another woman, Mrs. Lyla Hoffman of Great Neck, N.Y., argued that the committee's questions were not relevant to her activities in organizing Women Strike for Peace in her community. She conceded she had once been a Communist but not for the past five years. She cited the First Amendment provisions on freedom of association rather than the Fifth Amendment.

More New York area women are expected to be called during the three days of hearings. Another prospective witness is Mrs. Dagmar Wilson, Washington leader of the group, who has organized several picket lines at the White House protesting nuclear testing.

The ex-FBI man was Jack Levine, who gained considerable notice recently by writing a magazine article severely criticizing FBI methods. He had been an FBI agent for a brief period.

Argentine Rebel Threatened by 'Superior Force'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's new air force commander demanded today that his predecessor and a rebel garrison at the jet base of Cordoba surrender or face the onslaught of "overwhelmingly superior force."

Brig. Carlos Conrado Segundo Armanini issued the ultimatum—but without setting a time limit—as he arrived Argentine government chiefs met for the night in attempts to find a bloodless solution to the nation's sixth military-political crisis in nine months.

Brig. Cayo Antonio Alsina set up the rebel headquarters at Cordoba, 400 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, after President Jose Maria Guido fired him Tuesday as air force commander in chief.

Armanini said Alsina had broadened a minor group in a conspiracy to overthrow Guido's government and was fired "for this motive among others." Also dismissed was an air force combat commander, Brig. Gilberto Hidalgo Oliva, who was reported under arrest.

Guido has been striving to insure a united military command in support of his government's program of national elections in June. Some military leaders have called for a "democratic dictatorship" rather than elections because an estimated one-third of the voters still support the Peronists.

Bessemer Bus Buys Airlines Cab Service

David W. Cowen, president of the Bessemer Bus Corp., announced today that his company had purchased the Airlines Cab Service for a sum of $25,000, from James F. Donahue, 423 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

Cowen said Bessemer would operate the scheduled cab service with limousines, to and from Peterson Field, to the Broadmoor Hotel and to Colorado Springs hotels. Door to door service would also be provided, he said.

The office will be located at the airport terminal.

Bessemer Bus Corp., which also owns the American Sight-Seeing of Colorado Springs, took possession of Airlines Cab Service at midnight Tuesday.

The business transaction was handled by Gregory and Dorsey Realtors.

Clothing Taken From Car at Hotel

A man's suit, hat and gloves valued at $105, were stolen from a car parked in the parking lot at the Mayfair Hotel, 120 E. Platte Ave., the night of Dec. 9-10. The owner, David C. Klemm, 3730 Newland St., Wheatridge, an employee of the local Mountain States and Telephone Company, reported that the left front door of the vehicle was unlocked and there were no signs of forcible entry to the car.

Police reported today that Couture's Cleaners, 219-21 N. Cascade Ave., was entered Tuesday night and $50 taken from a cash register box.

Police Officers Charles Jensen and James Caldwell reported that the rear door of the building had been forced open as well as the steel filing cabinet where the cash box was kept.

In addition to the cash, several dividend checks, made out to either Carl B. Peterson or Carl B. Peterson Jr., are missing.

By BART KINCH
United Press International

The time to start taking your Christmas pictures is "now." Don't wait until Christmas Eve and then frantically check your equipment and lights.

Plan now to tell a Christmas story with your pictures, whether they be black-and-white, color slides or home movies.

Much of the joy of Christmas is in the preparations. The day itself should be the climax.

Take your camera with you while shopping for presents. Most stores are colorfully decorated at this time of year and make excellent backgrounds. You might plan to take pictures of children, yours or someone else's, gazing wistfully at a store window filled with toys, as a transition from Christmas Eve to Christmas morning.

Now we've reached the climax. It's Christmas morning. Happily expectant children come bounding into the room followed by their slower, but equally happy adults.

The opening of gifts will offer many opportunities for recording facial expressions, so be prepared to switch to a telephoto lens or move in close with your camera.

Brief scenes from the entire day should round out your Christmas story. Perhaps a picture of mother and children going off to church. The preparations for the Christmas dinner. The turkey, before and after, the meal.

The final scene could be the children going to bed—with a new favorite toy tucked in beside each one.

If there are no children, perhaps your final scene could be a contented couple waving farewell to departing guests from the gaily decorated doorway.

The results of such a planned recording of a family's Christmas story will pay big dividends in happy memories vividly brought back to mind over the years.

Try it. It's fun.

The Kearsarge made news this fall when it recovered Astronaut Wally Schirra. A hole was knocked in the ship's bow but was above the water. Luckily there were no injuries.

Adenauer Says Reds Had Plenty of Bombs

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said the Soviet Union had placed 10 percent of its nuclear weapons in Cuba before giving in to the U.S. demand for their withdrawal, the chancellery reported today.

Adenauer made this remark in a speech Monday before a closed meeting of the Union Presse, an organization of representatives of news media favorable to his party. He talked mostly about his Christian Democratic party efforts to form a new coalition government.

Asked about reports that came out of the meeting, the chancellery confirmed the remark about Soviet nuclear weapons but a spokesman refused to give any other information.

Railroads Win Another Round In Job Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Railroad management won another round here in its effort to eliminate jobs it says are no longer needed.

The New York Central Railroad, the nation's second largest, and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers (ORT) reached agreement in their five-year old job security dispute after two months of steady negotiations with federal mediator Francis A. O'Neill.

The railroad will have the right to lay off telegraphers on 90 day notice subject to substantial severance pay.

ORT President G. E. Leighty and NYC Vice President L. B. Fee said in announcing the agreement that it follows closely the settlement reached under arbitration in September between the ORT and the Chicago Northwestern Railway.

The ORT has now reached agreement with three railroads but still has to settle with 27 others regarding its 1958 request for a rule in which no job would be eliminated without union approval. But it was clear that the C and N.W. settlement, reached after a 30 day strike had been established as a pattern for future settlements.

The agreement with NYC, Leighty said, was reached without "threat or force" and he considered it an "acceptable, fair and equitable" settlement. Under the agreement telegraphers laid off will get severance pay ranging from $300 to close to $10,000 with most experienced workers receiving about $7,000.

The agreement also is within the framework of a presidential emergency board's recommendation made on Aug. 30.

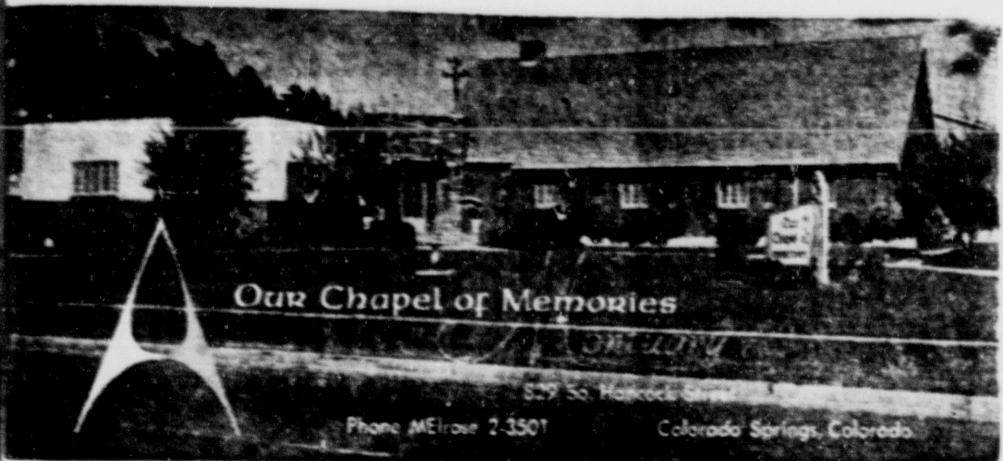

TALLY-HE!

OXFORD, England (UPI)—Cyril Brown, 74 said today he has won his battle with local fox hunters who wanted to ban his grandson from their forays because they thought the 8-year-old boy might fail to shut farm gates behind him.

The hunters relented after Brown banned them from chasing foxes over his 500-acre farm unless his grandson, John Lund, went along.

State Sales Ratio Plan Is Doomed, Spokesman Says

DENVER (AP) — Sales ratio, most controversial feature of Colorado's school finance act, appears doomed when the legislature meets next month, an ardent advocate of the plan declared.

"I personally will try to maintain it but I don't think it can be saved," Rep. Elmer Johnson, D-Denver, told a reporter.

Sales ratio has been included in the state's formula for distributing school aid for the past three years but each time its application has been changed. At present it applies only to urban property. Inclusion of sales ratio has been the chief factor in bitter fights over school legislation during the three periods.

Johnson's committee plans to recommend only three major changes in the school finance law next year.

They are:

1. Application of the excess growth factor if enrollment in a school district jumps more than 5 per cent in any one year. The present law applies the factor only if growth exceeds 7 percent. Under the program counties get additional state aid to meet large enrollment increases.

2. The gross income factor — written into the law last year — would be rewritten to average income for two years in 1963-64 and thereafter a three year average would be used. This provision says that the higher the income of a country's residents, the less school aid it will receive.

3. A requirement in the present law that the Game and Fish Department must make payments to counties for schools in lieu of taxes on property it owns in the county would be eliminated. Johnson said courts have declared the law illegal.

The committee is also expected to recommend an increase from 14 years of age to 16 years of age in the compulsory school attendance law and to suggest a change in child labor laws coinciding with it.

The Realty Recording Act is the law which requires filing of documents containing sale prices on all property, making computation of sales ratio possible.

Both the recording act and sales ratio itself have been under fire from rural interests ever since the program's inception 3½ years ago. The lawmakers have claimed it resulted in a distorted picture of valuations on agricultural and grazing land.

Wine Choice Not Big Problem for Holiday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — You key, and goose, too—a Burgundy may be torn between turkey and a Claret.

"If you want white, take Sauterne. Chablis or a Rhine wine. Or among the varietals—you can't miss with a Riesling, a dry Semillon or a Chardonnay. There are others. Any of the Roses will do."

The wine of your choice," said Miss Marjorie Lum of the Wine Institute here.

"A lot of nonsense has been written about wines," she said. "It got to a point where some people just passed up one of the greatest taste treats of all time because they were afraid some snob would think them gauche if they didn't have red wine with steak, white wine with chicken or fish."

"Others, thank heavens, were charged in connection with a $9,600 supermarket holdup last week. Police said Houston, alias Ralph Howard Ellis, admitted the holdup. They said he also was a guide fugitive from a Chattanooga, Tenn., jail.

"Either red or white goes with turkey. I like red myself with turkey."

McKinney, who formerly lived in Wheat Ridge, a Denver suburb said he was only joking.

Judge Chilson allowed McKinney to remain free under $500 bond, pending a pre-sentence report. He could be sentenced to a year's prison term and fined $1,000.

Indian, Spanish Yule Special New Mexico Note

By FRANK MORGAN
SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) —

Christmas is lights in New Mexico—lights that glowingly underline the festive and religious spirits of the state's Indian, Spanish and American cultures.

Ebenezer Scrooge wouldn't have to wait until Christmas Eve in New Mexico to learn what it is about. He would be struck with awe weeks before by the sounds, sights and spirits.

Through the rolling deserts, thick forests and sprawling cities, Christmas here is not just a one-day, presents - giving, trim-the-tree affair.

It is a devoted religious pageant lasting for weeks; it is homes gleaming with hundreds of candle-lit paper bags called luminarias; it is roaring bonfires lighting the 900-year-old Taos Indian Pueblo; it is the nine-day re-enactment of Mary and Joseph's search for the inn, it is miracle plays in every village and it is a season of gaiety and reverence.

The barren hills of the Rio Grande Valley, dotted with gnarled pinon trees and bushes, looks much like the hills half a way around the globe where a certain child was born 2,000 years ago.

For here shepherds also tend their flocks, here the sometimes primitive life still centers around land, and here on the clear crisp nights one uses the stars to guide him.

Early in December the luminarias go up on the square walls of stores, adobe homes, walls and curbs. The sand-filled sacks with candles inside light the way for the lost Christ child, El Nido Perido, who walks the night among the faithful.

The traditional fiesta of the Virgin of Guadalupe begins in Santa Fe Dec. 11 in honor of the Roman Catholic patroness of the Americas. The centuries-old feast day is the most important Marian festival in the Americas.

There follows "Las Posadas," the nine-day re-enactment of the Holy Family's search for shelter.

ANNOUNCE DRAFT QUOTA
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army will draft 4,000 men in February, the same number called for January.

In announcing the February quota Monday, the Pentagon said the draft call would rise slightly in March in line with plans to temporarily increase Army strength by 20,000 men to 880,000.

A group representing the family church Christmas Eve, then hold wanders from house to house with torches, and sometimes a burro, knocking and asking to be let in. The answer always is, "There is no room here."

The Indians, still holding to their ceremonial that date back to before Christ, observe his birth with the rituals of their adopted Christianity and ancient prayer dances. The spectacular "Procession of Torches" at Taos Pueblo has gaily-dressed Indians making their way to church through roaring bonfires Christmas week.

The Santo Domingo Indians near Albuquerque attend midnight Catholic mass in their dirt-floor churches.

Contract Revised For Fontanero Underpass Work

The City Council Tuesday approved a revised contract with the B. H. Baker Construction Co. which will require the city to pay $146,571 for construction of the Fontanero Street underpass.

Total cost of the project will be $171,571, with the state paying $25,000.

The council last month authorized a contract with Baker based on the low bid of $165,520 with the stipulation that certain items in the proposed construction be omitted if the State Highway Department was not willing to pay $42,224 of the total cost and that the cost of sheet piling would be $3,000.

Since the state would not agree to pay more than $25,000 and the sheet piling would cost more than $28,000, an alternative proposal was proposed by Public Works Director James J. Murray omitting asphalt prime, paving, curb and gutter, and highway bridge slope paving.

The new proposal calls for construction of a shoofly track, estimated at $13,000, instead of the sheet piling, for use by the Rock Island Railroad during construction.

The underpass will be constructed from the city's service center beneath the railroad tracks to provide direct access to the Monument Valley Freeway.

City vehicles now enter the service center by way of Glen Avenue from Uintah Street. With the expansion of the service center during the past year congestion on Glen Avenue has increased.

The city began discussions on a proposed underpass access to the freeway more than a year ago. At that time the cost was estimated at $125,000 and the project was rejected in favor of a cheaper method.

It was later proposed to construct twin tubes beneath the tracks at about half that cost, but railroad officials objected.

The council then agreed to go ahead with the original project.

Kaphen and Jim Bates, past president, of the club, who made the selection Tuesday night. Ron Webber of Ft. Carson was named alternate Explorer.

CC Symposium to Feature Novelist James Yaffe

James Yaffe, a novelist who has been writing regularly since 1949 for magazines such as Esquire, Atlantic Monthly, and the New Yorker, will be featured participant in Colorado College's symposium on "The Contemporary Novel."

Dean Sodermann said Philip Roth, originally scheduled to talk about problems facing the writer, will not be able to participate in the symposium.

Announcement that Yaffe has accepted an invitation to take part in the cultural festival was made by Associate Dean Fred A. Sodermann, director of the symposium.

Dr. Sodermann said other literary figures scheduled to lecture, take part in panel discussions, and read their works during the symposium include Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Karl Shapiro; mystery writer Lillian de la Torre; Marshall Sprague, author of numerous books on Colorado's colorful past, including "Newport in the Rockies"; novelist Amanda Ellis, professor of English and writer in residence at the college; Lenora Mattingly Weber, author of 200 short stories and a couple of dozen books for young girls; and Critic Hazel E. Barnes of the University of Colorado.

Yaffe, 35, is the author of the current popular novel, "Mr. Margalo."

Brendan Gill has commented that Yaffe resembles Charles Dickens "in being able to gather up what is mean and drab and, without the least diminishing its meanness and drabness, reveal it to be not merely worthy of attention but actually desirable, because it is more violent, more stuffed with sweet and sour savors, more like life as the reader has always supposed and half-dreaded, half-hoped life would be than anything in his experience."

Writing in the New Yorker of Yaffe's third book, "What's the Big Hurry," Gill said: "If there ever was a born writer, it is James Yaffe."

The author of several novels and countless short stories, Yaffe will discuss the contemporary novel and the background of the novel at the Colorado College symposium.

Yaffe, a native of Chicago, was educated at Fieldston School and Yale University where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in literature in 1948.

He launched his literary career at the age of 15 when he sold a detective short story to Ellery Queen's Mystery Magazine.

Five Prisoners Get Clemency At Ft. Carson

An old Army tradition was observed Tuesday at Ft. Carson as five prisoners at the post stockade were granted Christmas clemency by Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Russ, Carson and 5th Infantry Division commander.

The individuals, each of whom had approximately a month to serve on his sentence, are being returned to their duty units with all their rights restored.

Gen. Russ ordered the releases in exercise of his clemency authority and in accordance with a Fifth Army policy encouraging commanders "during the Christmas season to review the cases of all individuals serving court martial sentences with the view toward suspending or remitting unexecuted portions in worthy cases."

Speeder Fined In JP Court

Clarence Willoughby Shamer, 56, of Palmer Lake was fined $15 and costs in Justice of the Peace James F. Quinn's court Wednesday for driving at 50 miles per hour in a 35 zone Dec. 6. The violation happened on North Nevada Avenue and C. F. Rodden of the state patrol was the ticketing officer.

State Patrolman Ken Shiflet cited Dottie Deane Price, 28, of 1017 Norwood Ave. as she had no valid operator's license. The summons was issued Sunday on U.S. Highway 85-87 and a $5 fine and costs were imposed.

A 16-year-old girl, Cheryl Ann Nickisch of Security drove on the wrong side of the roadway on Pecos Drive Saturday and paid a $10 fine and costs. The state patrolman was Shiflet.

Burglar Makes Entry Thru Air Conditioner

An athletic burglar who must have also been part acrobat broke into Collins Super Market at 603 S. 8th St. late Monday night or early Tuesday and thoroughly ransacked it, the sheriff's department reported.

Entry was made thru the roof air conditioner unit which had been forced loose. The intruder then got thru a 12 foot by 12 foot shaft from the conditioner to the front of the store. Apparently he did not escape unscathed as Sheriff's Detective Woodrow Littrell and Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske found blood not only at the base of the shaft but all the way thru the store.

The jewelry case was opened and all the watches and jewelry removed. Approximately five dollars was taken from the soft drink machine, the office cabinets and files were opened and scattered around and everything else dumped on the floor.

The burglar left by breaking out the rear door. The store has not yet compiled an inventory of the missing items.

Narcotic Case Trial Date Moved to Feb. 5

The trial date of Kenneth Leroy Mollenkopf charged with being in possession of a narcotic drug, was vacated in District Court Tuesday, from Dec. 18 and re-set for Feb. 5, 1963, at the request of counsel, Howard Kunstle.

Kunstle told the presiding judge, William M. Calvert, that he wished further time to prepare the case and obtain additional witnesses.

According to information, Mollenkopf, 23, of the Pike View Trailer Court had marijuana in his possession when arrested Oct. 14 at the Caravan Night Club. A sheriff's report said he had been under observation for a week and had been seen to make various "contacts" at the club. It went on to say he seemed to be a "pusher," one who sells narcotics.

Mollenkopf however denied selling the drug and refused to tell Deputy Sheriff Bob Snuggs and Sheriff's Detective Woodrow Littrell where he obtained the marijuana.

Gen. Curtis Returns After Extensive European Tour

Brig. Gen. Kenneth I. Curtis, who heads operations and training for the Army Air Defense Command in the U.S. and in Greenland, has returned to ARADCOM headquarters here after an extensive tour of U.S. Army and North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Nike guided missile units.

The general, with five of his staff officers, spent nearly three weeks with NATO and U.S. representatives in conferences and inspection trips which took him to Germany, France and Greece. Gen. Curtis described the trip as "most beneficial" in the exchange of ideas that will in the near future standardize air defense techniques for U.S. Army, Europe missilemen, NATO, and ARADCOM troops.

The ARADCOM team visited Heidelberg, Germany, twice, for conferences with the operations section of U.S. Army, Europe with personnel from the NATO countries of Belgium, Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Germany, France and Italy. He also met with officers of U.S. Military Advisory Groups assigned to those countries.

Another stop was at headquarters, 32nd Artillery Brigade, a U.S. Army, Europe guided missile unit, at Kaiserslautern, Germany.

In Paris Gen. Curtis met with representatives of Supreme Allied Powers, Europe, and headquarters, European Command.

At Athens, meetings were held with NATO country representatives from Greece and Turkey.

U.S. Army, Europe Nike battalions and NATO countries armed with Nike Ajax and Nike Hercules guided missiles, come to the United States annually to practice fire their missiles at McGregor Missile Range, N.M., and learn the latest improvements the Nike system used by troops of the Army Air Defense Command.

NATO troops practice fire at the same launcher areas used by missilemen of ARADCOM, using the same equipment, practice missiles, and scoring formulas.

ARADCOM's Records Evaluation Branch, which is part of the G-3 (Operations and Training) Section at ARADCOM Headquarters, has the responsibility to evaluate all Nike missile "shoots" at the New Mexico range.

America's NATO partners under the Military Assistance Program, have been training in the U.S. since 1957.

Accompanying the general were Col. R. C. Cheal, liaison officer for ARADCOM at the U.S. Army Air Defense Center, Ft. Bliss, Tex.; Lt. Col. George S. Pappas, training branch, G-3 Section at ARADCOM Headquarters; Lt. Col. Donald L. Ness, ARADCOM's records evaluation branch officer at Ft. Bliss; CWO Leonard R. Woods, and CWO R. V. Deitz, both in the G-3 Section, Colorado Springs.

The girls ran home and reported the incident to their parents. The sheriff's office checked the area immediately but could find no man answering the description given by the girls.

Attempted Child Molest Reported

A case of attempted child molest involving two 13-year-old girls was reported to the sheriff's department, Tuesday.

The girls were walking across on Las Vegas Street at Fountain Creek when they noticed a young man below with a BB gun. He offered them some money and then made an obscene remark, Deputy Sheriff Barnard Barry said.

The girls ran home and reported the incident to their parents. The sheriff's office checked the area immediately but could find no man answering the description given by the girls.

Store Employee Reports Loss Of Her Purse

Ruth E. Conway, an employee of the Levine Store, 121 E. Pike Peak Ave., reported to police Monday that her purse was stolen from the store between 1 and 3 p.m.

Miss Conway told authorities she placed the purse on a counter beneath the cash register and when she returned for it, it was gone. The purse contained $15 in cash, a small amount of change, Sears Roebuck credit plate, a $32 check made out to Miss Conway from Levine's, a check book from the Albuquerque National Bank and miscellaneous cards.

Girls School To Present Christmas Play

The seventh grade of the Colorado Springs School for Girls, assisted by grades eight and nine, will give their Christmas play at 4 p.m. Friday in the auditorium of the Broadmoor Elementary School, Fourtales Road, Broadmoor.

"Los Pastores," a seventeenth century Spanish-American nativity play has been chosen, because it fits in with several study areas in the school.

The play is an unusual one which was brought to Mexico by Spanish missionaries and has been played continuously in Mexico and border towns in the United States ever since.

The traditional story is lived with Mexican dances and folk songs, and the presentation to the Christ Child of such native gifts as tamales.

There will be no charge for the performance and all friends of the school are invited to attend.

LINCOLN PROGRAM—Sixth grade pupils at Lincoln Elementary School will present their annual Christmas program December 13 at 7:30 p.m. Shown rehearsing the Nativity tableau are Ira Wood, Joe Swan, Debbie Quigley, and Roy Simmons. All other District 11 schools have Christmas programs scheduled this week and next week.

Contract Okayed For $1.17 Million Blue River Dam

A $1.17 million contract with the Northwestern Engineering Co., Denver, was approved Tuesday by the Colorado Springs City Council for construction of a water storage reservoir on the upper Blue River.

The firm will construct a dam on the Western slope nine miles northwest of Alma which will impound an estimated 2,500 acre feet of water.

Northwestern submitted a low bid in October of $1,236,146, which was 21 per cent above the engineer's estimate of $1,070,823. The only other bid on the project was from Hubner Construction Co., which offered to do the job for $1,498,865.

However, later negotiations between officials of the Public Utilities Department and Northwestern Engineering Co. resulted in reduction of the low bid to $1.17 million.

The contract calls for a dam with an asphaltic concrete deck. Cost per acre foot has dropped from $607 in the original bid to $547, according to the engineering firm of Blank and Veatch. This compares with a normal $700 per acre foot, the firm reported.

Members Named To City Boards, Commissions

Nine members were appointed Tuesday by the City Council to the city's advisory boards and commissions.

The appointments will become effective at the first of the year. John Croff was reappointed to a three-year term on the Board of Adjustment and Virgil Thompson was named to a three-year term on the board, replacing Virgil Thompson.

Charles Bickley and Bud Shepherd were named to four-year terms on the Contractors Board, replacing B. H. Baker and Leo Ververs. Another vacancy, to be filled at the next council meeting, was opened up by the appointment of board member Pete Tyree as city building inspector.

Tyree will remain on the board as ex officio member, replacing Walter Kuenning.

R. R. Nation was named to a five-year term on the Patty Jewett Golf Commission, replacing Phil Shaw.

The Colorado College Faculty Club will hold its annual Christmas party Friday night at the Moors Restaurant.

More than 100 members of the teaching faculty, administrative staff, their wives and guests are expected to attend. A buffet dinner will follow a reception at 6 p.m.

High point of the evening will be the distribution of "white elephant" gifts by Santa Claus.

The anonymous gifts will be given out as names are drawn from a hat. Faculty Club President Robin Rudoff explained.

This marks the 45th annual faculty Christmas party at the independent college of arts and sciences, according to Associate Dean Edward Mathias, who founded the club in 1938.

The party was planned by the executive committee of the faculty club. They are: President Rudoff; Vice President Margaret Saunders of the education department; Secretary Joan Shiner; Treasurer Richard G. Beidleman of the zoology department; Prof. Van Shaw of the sociology department, representing the social science division; Prof. Milton Snyder of the chemistry department, representing the natural science division; Prof. Wallace Boyce of the French department, representing the humanities division; and Prof. James A. John of the economics department, immediate past president of the club.

Maj. Magee was recently promoted to his present rank and transferred to McDill AFB, Fla. A panel of leading civilian authors judged 15 final entries to come up with the prize winners.

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE: I have been reading your article on "How to Keep Well" and am interested in the information you have provided. I am a doctor and I am interested in the information you have provided. I am a doctor and I am interested in the information you have provided.

TB AND BLOOD PRESSURE

Many ideas for research stem from casual observations. Only a few pan out but we never know when an important discovery will be made. After all, there was nothing startling about Newton's original observation of a falling apple or the slight contamination of Fleming's Petri dish by the mold that proved to be penicillin. A Hungarian physician with a wide experience in caring for patients with tuberculosis noted that the majority have low blood pressure. He decided to make a detailed study of 600 of these men and women and found that only nine had hypertension.

Dr. Somogyi went to the medical library and found this was not an original observation. Others had reported the same lack of high blood pressure among victims of tuberculosis; one author mentioned hypertension only when the tuberculosis was completely healed. Another said "the blood vessels of tuberculous patients are younger than their ages, and those of arteriosclerotic patients are older."

The casual observation began to tell and the Hungarian physician wanted to determine why those with tuberculosis got this break. He thought there might be something in the tubercle bacilli that was responsible. But it was dangerous and impractical to give tuberculosis to those with hypertension and arteriosclerosis; consequently, other methods of study were needed.

He decided to inject into rats substances such as tuberculin and BCG (the antituberculosis vaccine) which come from the bacilli but do not produce the disease. The rodents were given different diets known to produce arteriosclerosis and hypertension. But when tuberculin or BCG was administered simultaneously with the diet, it prevented the experimentally induced hypertension and arterial damage.

The hunch has passed the initial laboratory tests but no one knows where it will go from there. Someone else may pick it up and find that the substance responsible for lowering the blood pressure is or is not related to tuberculosis or its causative organisms.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Skin Eruptions and Scales
P. K. writes: Is pityriasis a form of psoriasis?

Reply
No. The most common type of pityriasis is leads to a more delicate eruption with brainlike scales. The lesions usually disappear within 3 to 10 weeks and do not recur. Psoriasis is a chronic skin disorder that comes and goes. The lesions are sharply defined and the scales are silvery or grayish.

Bleeding Gums
F. L. writes: My dentist advised me to take vitamin C tablets for ulcerated gums but it has not helped. What are other causes of this condition besides a vitamin C deficiency? My teeth are in good shape.

Reply
Blood disorders and trench mouth and other infections. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on gum disorders.

Type of Gout
H. A. writes: What is a colloid gout?

Reply
An enlarged thyroid that is honeycombed with spaces filled with colloid material. This is known as simple goiter, due to iodine deficiency, and appears more frequently at the time of puberty.

Duodenum Deformity
E. C. writes: What does a deformed duodenal bulb mean?

Reply
The term refers to the bulbous opening into the small intestine which may be in spasm or deformed because of ulcer or scarring from a healed ulcer.

Reader Returns

Almost 300 Books

NORWICH, England (AP)—A constant reader entered the Norwich Public Library the other day and said he had some overdue books to return.

"Certainly, sir," said the librarian. "How many?"

"Er—well—299," said the visitor. The books were outside in a truck. The man said he decided to return them after the library announced it was forgiving all fines.

Bells of Rome To Herald Christmastide

ROME (UPI) — The bells of the Eternal City will ring out at midnight Dec. 24 to herald the world's 1,962nd Christmas.

Pope John XXIII in the Vatican many of Rome's 2 million population will greet Christmas in prayer.

The big bells of St. Peter's Basilica in the Vatican and those of hundreds of churches in Rome peal out their joyful message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" Christmas Eve as midnight masses begin.

Pope John says a midnight mass for members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See. And he makes a brief address to them.

The Pontiff's principal Christmas message to the world will already have been delivered—he releases it now several days before the holiday to allow maximum distribution.

It is traditionally a plea to mankind.

On Christmas, thousands of Romans and pilgrims gather outside St. Peter's for a more personal message from the Pope—a cheery Italian "Buon Natale" (Merry Christmas) from the window of his apartment overlooking the cobbled square.

Then he gives his blessing. At the church of the Ara Coeli (The Altar of Heaven) on the Capitoline Hill, the faithful venerate a jeweled statue of the Christ Child.

The statue was carved centuries ago from the wood of an olive tree that grew in the Garden of Gethsemane. The face of the Christ Child is crusted with the dust of ages but the statue itself glitters with diamonds, rubies and pearls.

At the Basilica of St. John in Lateran, the devout climb the "Holy Stairs" on their knees, moving slowly up the 28 marble steps brought from Jerusalem and which tradition claims are the same Christ mounted to appear before Pontius Pilate for his death sentence.

To Romans Christmas is associated with the plaintive sound of shepherd's pipes.

The shepherds leave the Abruzzi Mountains east of Rome in their foggings and sheepskin coats to play their hand-made bagpipes in St. Peter's Square and in the winding streets of Rome. The melodies could be as old as Christmas itself.

Roman Christmas centers on two great squares—St. Peter's and Piazza Navona.

Weeks before Christmas, dealers set up booths around the three fountains of the arena-sized Piazza Navona to sell figures for the traditional cribs depicting the scene of Christ in the manger, Christmas trees and toys.

Even on Christmas Day, when the shopping is all done, Romans and their children stroll through Piazza Navona with its two magnificent fountains to listen to the music of the shepherd's pipes and look at the life-sized scene of Christ in the manger setup at one end of the square.

Tito's Speech Seeks to Ease Red Relations

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press published today a speech by President Tito of Yugoslavia, apparently aimed at easing the ideological differences between the Kremlin and Belgrade.

"We in Yugoslavia are building a Socialist society on the principles of Marxism-Leninism in accordance with our conditions and possibilities," said Tito.

The speech, made Monday in Volgograd, formerly Stalingrad, was printed by the Soviet party paper Pravda without comment.

Last year, Premier Khrushchev's new program for the Soviet Communist party accused Tito of being a "revisionist."

"The ideology of revisionism," said a Soviet program at the time "is most fully embodied in the program of the League of Communists of Yugoslavia."

This now apparently is being ignored. In his speech, Tito firmly declared himself in favor of better relations with the Soviet Union.

After the program was published, the Kremlin began making a determined effort to woo Tito and his party. He arrived in the Soviet Union last week, was embraced by Khrushchev, and is now traveling from Volgograd via Moscow to Leningrad.

BOARD TO MEET

DENVER (UPI) — The State Canvassing Board will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the State Capitol to certify returns for most of the offices at stake in the Colorado general election. The board will check returns on the U.S. Senate race, U.S. House of Representatives races, the Board of Education contest, the Board of Regents, district judgeships, the Supreme Court and the State Legislature. The legislature itself will canvass returns for all executive offices when it convenes in January.

First Methodist Church in Ohio was organized at Milford, Clermont County, in 1797 by Francis McCormick.

Thousands Will Flock to Church In Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM (UPI) — Thousands of pilgrims will flock to the Church of the Nativity here again this year for Christmas observances in the Grotto where Christians believe Jesus was born.

The Chapel, or Grotto, lies beneath the Basilica of the Church and a silver star marks the spot of the Nativity. Fifteen silver lamps are kept burning all the time to symbolize the harmony between the three sects sharing the Church.

Six of the lamps belong to the Greek Orthodox Church, four to the Roman Catholics and five to the Armenians, representing the religious complexion of the town. Most of these Christians are Arabs.

Outside the churches, hawkers sell souvenirs, crucifixes and mother of pearl rosaries. The shops are decorated with figures of the Christ Child in the manger.

The balconies of the low buildings of faded gray stone are crowded with persons watching the throngs and listening to the solemn chanting.

The road to Bethlehem, which winds through the Hebron hills, hums with a flow of traffic. Hotels in the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem, five miles to the north, are packed with pilgrims.

The Roman Catholic rite begins the afternoon of Dec. 24 with a solemn procession led by the Patriarch of Jerusalem, Msgr. Alberto Gori, to the Church of St. Catherine.

At midnight, Msgr. Gori, in red and gold robes, celebrates mass in the adjacent Church of the Nativity. Msgr. Gori, accompanied by chanting priests, carries a replica of the Christ Child to the Grotto.

The Greek Orthodox and Armenian Catholics will hold similar ceremonies. There is a plain altar in the Grotto which is used by all three sects during the holiday. Each decorates it according to the practice of its church.

Though each sect guards its rights in the Church of the Nativity, all are bound together by the Silver Star and the Latin inscription: "Hic De Virgine Maria Jesus Christus Natus Es" (Here Jesus Christ Was Born Of The Virgin Mary).

Several thousand Israeli Christians have been given permission by both the governments of Israel and Jordan to spend two days in Jordan.

The Israeli Christians and their brethren often have waited for years for a chance to see one another. The scenes at the Mendebaum Gate on the border are filled with joyful and tearful reunions.

Yet, with this spirit of good will, there remain only five miles away in Jerusalem the stone walls, barbed wire and armed guards which divide the Arab and Israeli sectors of that city.

Cubans Told They Need Ration Books

HAVANA (AP)—Cubans were told today they will have to use ration books to get the goodies that traditionally decorate the Christmas table—pork, poultry, nuts and candy.

"There will not be the great quantity we wish but there will be enough for all," the interior commerce minister, Manuel Lizardo, said in an interview with the government paper Revolucion.

The shoppers rush was most evident, however, at shoe stores. Word that a pair could be obtained brought out long lines before stores but the shelves were empty. The government nationalized the shoe industry last week but so far has not put into effect the expected ration scheme.

One of the best Christmas presents for the Cuban was the prediction that more than 16 million pairs of shoes, boots and sneakers would be manufactured next year with everyone promised at least two pairs a year. An unspecified amount will be set aside for export to Bulgaria.

TO LIGHT TREE: WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy will light the national Christmas tree in ceremonies on the ellipse south of the White House next Monday afternoon.

Noel, Missouri Is All Set for Busy Christmas

By CARL CHRISTENSEN

NOEL, Mo. (UPI)—This tiny town in the Ozark hills of southern Missouri prepared again today to live up to its name.

Signs of the season have been evident for weeks throughout the town bearing the French name for Christmas.

Every resident of Noel, from school children to pensioners, participate in the annual Christmas festivities. All the work is voluntary. St. Rlara Lake on the edge of town will symbolize the beauty of Christmas with a 35-foot lighted tree sparkling against a background of several large Nativity scenes.

Thousands of persons from throughout Missouri and surrounding states visit Noel during the Christmas season. Others send letters and packages for the unique Noel postmark.

This season the Order of Eastern Star has taken over the task in the lobby of the post office at fixing the Noel postmark to letters and packages. The postmark is in the form of a Christmas tree and decrees "Noel, The Christmas City."

A new activity for the town this season is answering hundreds of letters for Santa Claus. Apparently learning of Noel from newspapers through the years, writers to old St. Nick are sending their letters here this season. The Chamber of Commerce has arranged for each letter to be answered.

Despite its official population of only 780, Noel receives more mail than much larger cities during the Christmas season. Civic officials estimate the amount at a half million pieces, but Postmaster Howard Cates would only guess "many thousands."

A mammoth three-day celebration starts this season in Noel, Dec. 14.

One of the highlights will be a parachuting Santa Claus. John Myers, editor of the Neosho News, a parachutist by hobby, will plunge from an airplane. He will carry a bag of goodies for the children.

The Noel Ministerial Alliance will sponsor the program of Dec. 16, depicting the theme of "Put Christ Back Into Christmas." Nativity scenes and singing of Christmas hymns will mark the event.

The Junior Ministerial Alliance will sponsor the program of Dec. 16, depicting the theme of "Put Christ Back Into Christmas." Nativity scenes and singing of Christmas hymns will mark the event.

Most of the 12,000-man "people's police" estimated to be stationed directly on West Berlin's border are youngsters drawn from other parts of East Germany.

Gordon's Gin was an English holiday greeting 74 years before Mr. J. C. Horsley designed the first Christmas card. The Gordon's you drink today harks back to Alexander Gordon's original 1769 formula, for one doesn't tamper with a good thing... especially when it is the world's biggest seller. Wine Contains Vitamin B

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What vitamins are there in wine?
A—Dr. Agnes Fay Morgan, professor emerita, University of California, is the person most responsible for the vitamin analysis of wine. According to Dr. Morgan and her associates, wine contains the B vitamins, including thiamin, riboflavin, pantothenic acid, pyridoxine, nicotinic acid and folic acid in quantities sufficient to add significantly to the daily vitamin intake.

This is probably why doctors have been prescribing wine for anemia for centuries. "But this does not mean that anybody should take to prescribing wine for his anemia symptoms. Wine will do no good in pernicious anemia. The thing to do is to see your family physician. Let him do the prescribing." Try a G.T. Classified Ad—632-4641

Christmas Buffets a Jolly Affair

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Christmas Eve at our house is a festival of old friendships, cherished relatives and caroling teenagers, plus a bountiful buffet garbaged with "welcome".
The buffet, long and brightly green and red with tall candles, has large caserones of scalloped potatoes at one end and an electric tray that keeps them hot. Plates of cold roast beef, turkey breast, tongue and assorted ring of the tall tree in the living cheeres. A large ham, partially sliced. Pickles in profusion, teen-age son and one of his school friends always one of the most popular friends distribute the gifts. There 1 can (2 - ounces) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (11 - ounces) condensed
Cheddar cheese soup
2 tablespoons oyster liquid
1 tablespoon sherry or lemon juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Chopped chives
4 slices of toast
Drain oysters, saving liquid. In sautepan, brown mushrooms and cook onion in butter until tender. Blend in soup until smooth. Gradually add oyster liquid, sherry or lemon juice and the 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Heat, stirring now and then. Place 1 tablespoon sauce then 4 oysters in each of 4 ramekins, cover with remaining sauce. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Top with chives. Cut each slice of toast into 4 triangles, arrange around sides of dish.

Christmas Party Dip

California avocadoes mashed with a fork and blended with sour cream, lemon juice, salt and curry powder make a festive party dip. Add a "poinsettia" garnish of pimento strips for a special Christmas touch.

Take that roast out of the refrigerator an hour or two before it is to go into the oven so the meat can come to room temperature.

What Do Doctors Do When They Suffer HEADACHE PAIN?

New York, N.Y. — Most doctors live under constant nervous tension, pressure and mental strain. It's not surprising they, too, often suffer from miserable headaches. But now — it can be revealed what doctors, themselves, take to relieve headache pain.
A survey shows many doctors take the fast, pain-relieving ingredients in Anacin®. In fact, three out of four doctors recommend this same type of relief to their patients.
Anacin Tablets are stronger yet safer. They give fast, long-lasting and — more complete relief from tense, nervous headaches than aspirin or aspirin with buffering. You see, mere aspirin or buffered aspirin contains only one pain reliever. But Anacin is different. Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of medically proven ingredients recognized for their effectiveness by the highest medical authorities. Anacin gives extra medication that not only relieves pain fast, but also its nervous tension, pressure and depression.
After taking Anacin — pain goes in minutes! The sufferer 'feels great' again.
Despite their strength and effectiveness — Anacin Tablets contain no narcotics, do not form a habit or leave one depressed. Anacin may be taken as directed as often as needed without upsetting or irritating the stomach.
See if the extra medication in Anacin doesn't work better for you. Change to Anacin for fast, long-lasting, more complete pain-relief.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:
Many of us make gelatin salads. About the cutest trick I have found, which can do for salads or desserts, is to use my muffin tin for a mold.
I happen to have a twelve-cup muffin tin. In half of the muffin tins, I grate carrots or cabbage or both, therefore making a beautiful individual salad which may be topped with mayonnaise.
I just set the muffin tins on my refrigerator shelf. This can be held for a few days.
So, one night I use the little molds for dessert topped with whipped cream.
The following night I use those into which I have dropped the grated cabbage for another salad, and so on. Any type of fruits, vegetables, or pecans can be used for variation. Try sliced stuffed olives! Great!
This saves me the problem of what can I have for a salad tonight besides lettuce and tomatoes. It's all ready, can be put in any plate immediately, and if some member of the family gets hungry in between times, there is always something to nibble on.
Grease the inside of the muffin tin with mayonnaise before putting gelatin in them and they come out easier!
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Here is an excerpt from a folder of a company that sells teakettles.
For lime coated teakettles — in some localities, the water leaves a grayish or white coating of lime and iron oxide inside.
This coating thickens with continued use of your teakettle and reduces the efficiency of your range. To prevent a deposit from forming, empty the teakettle when it has stood unused overnight or for several hours.
If the teakettle already has a coating of lime fill with a solution of water and vinegar — half water and half vinegar — and bring to a boil.
Let the solution stand in the teakettle for several hours or overnight. This softens the deposit so that it may be removed by tapping the bottom and sides of the kettle gently to loosen the coating or by scraping it off with a wooden spoon or paddle.
If the teakettle has a closed top, turn it upside down after removing the solution and firmly tap the bottom with a wooden mallet or similar object. This will break the lime coating into small pieces which can then be shaken out.
Katherine B. Wilson

Dear Heloise:
This tip is especially useful on cool damp days when it is hard to dry heavy socks.
I lay the socks flat on my oven racks with only the pilot light on in the oven. Light-weight socks will dry in about an hour. Heavy ones will dry overnight.
I sometimes dry underwear, in an emergency, this way in the winter. It doesn't cost anything, either, since the pilot light is on anyway, and it sure saves me lots of time.
Mrs. W. Kerns

It works. Just remember, ONLY the pilot light.
Heloise
Dear Heloise:
To remove tar from little boys' clothes, there is nothing like "Old Faithful" — kerosene. Kerosene is the only thing that I have found that I can use on brightly colored synthetics. Many thanks.
Mrs. O. G. Rudolf

Dear Heloise:
For those who have hot air registers and floor furnaces, place a fan behind the floor furnace and you can blow the warm air in any direction you wish it to go.
For instance, our floor furnace is between our living room and dining room. During the day I place my fan behind the register to blow the air into living room. When dinner time comes, I turn the fan around the other way and it blows the warm air into the dining room!

Farm Federation Urges Attack on Federal Budget

ATLANTA (AP) — American Farm Bureau Federation convention platform drafters called here for a meat cleaver attack on the federal budget. They backed this with an offer to seek a big slash in farm aid outlays.

Proposed resolutions before delegates from 49 states attending the big farm organization's annual meeting recommend a 10 per cent cut in federal spending which now runs about $100 billion a year.

Farmers would take a cutback of $1 billion or roughly 25 per cent of the amount Uncle Sam spends annually to support farm prices and provide other aid to farmers.

This saving in federal spending would be used to permit a tax cut and a reduction in government deficits.

"We challenge all other groups who agree that a tax cut is desirable to make specific recommendations to Congress for comparable reductions in expenditures," the resolutions said.

The committee made this budget proposal in a policy statement for 1963 that bitterly attacked big government, including farm controls. The statement called upon local and state governments to assume greater responsibilities in meeting needs and problems of the people.

The resolutions are expected to be approved by the delegates before the convention closes Thursday.

Adhering to past stands of the farm bureau, the resolutions called for eventual retreat of government from control of crops now under federal regulation—cotton, tobacco, rice, wheat and peanuts —and opposed extension of control to products not now covered by them.

The resolutions committee said that a reduction in federal spending is essential to halt further inflation and to maintain international confidence in this country's stability. Furthermore, it said, clipping of wings of the federal government is needed if individual freedom is to be preserved.

"If farm people are to enjoy freedom, we must accept the discipline of competition," the policy makers declared.

NEW MISSILE DESTROYER

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — The Navy commissioned its newest missile destroyer, the USS Semmes, Monday. Adm. Robert B. Carney, former chief of naval operations, called the ship "a symbol of the age in which we live."

The Semmes, attached to Flotilla 6 here, is armed with Tartar anti-aircraft missiles and an antisubmarine weapons system capable of firing torpedoes or nuclear depth charges at long range.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy's handling of the Adlai Stevenson affair has definitely raised the question, What's going on, anyway?

The President's considerably delayed letter expressing his "full confidence" in the U.S. ambassador to the UN has not washed up one iota the general impression that Stevenson's days on his present job are numbered.

It is being fairly pointed out that Kennedy did not in the letter question the accuracy of the obviously inspired magazine article which reported that Stevenson, alone of Kennedy's Cuban crisis counselors, urged a soft line, a bases-trade deal instead of armed action.

Adlai himself had witheringly blasted as totally erroneous the description of his stand as it appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, written by two writer friends of Kennedy (Stewart Alsop and Charles Bartlett), who can move around the White House freely.

But in his "Dear Adlai" letter the President was having no part of criticizing the writing job his friends did, confining himself to an expressed regret that the magazine piece caused such an "unfortunate stir."

Loyalty, of course, is a most wondrous thing, but the President has not hesitated in the past to take apart a well-researched published account of what happened here in a crisis. We are thinking specifically of a Fortune Magazine article in September, 1961, which gave the best run-down yet available on the administration moves preceding the Bay of Pigs invasion disaster.

Kennedy charged that account was "full of errors." But, of course, the author, Charles J. V. Murphy, is not close to the President like Alsop or, particularly, Bartlett. So, as matters stand now, the President has gone through the formal motions of fully supporting Adlai, but at the same time not questioning the truth of what was said about him.

And to compound the significance of this omission, Kennedy in his letter also had nothing to say about whether national security had been violated by whomever in his administration passed on to Alsop and Bartlett the hatchet-job information on what Stevenson purportedly said at a most secret crisis meeting.

Who the snitchers were is a really big, dark secret. Few here question, however, the availability to Alsop and Bartlett of individuals who were at the secret national security crisis Cabinet meeting of Oct. 20 at which Adlai purportedly expounded a "Munich line."

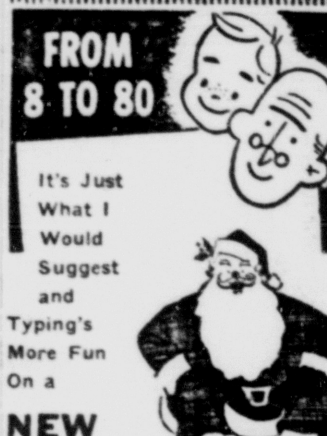

But is the President going to direct the FBI to hunt for the source, or sources, of the leak? If, as one report has it, he has been boiling mad over the leak, then it would have been proper to have said in the Adlai letter that he was going to get to the bottom of what is certainly a scandalous situation if it takes all winter.

But he said nothing at all.

This omission and the total White House silences on the same subject is disturbing, to say the least. All meetings of the National Security Council — or under Kennedy of an equivalent and larger "executive committee" — have always been considered inviolate as to the secrecy of the deliberations.

No one to this day knows how members of the Security Council voted in 1950 to provide guidance for Harry Truman's decision not to send Gen. MacArthur's forces beyond the Yalu River in Korea. But now, without a peep of official protest, there is splashed for all the world to see, and particularly the Russians, the way the vote went on whether to blockade or invade Cuba.

It is obviously embarrassing to

Danger of New Mid-East Fight Noted by Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Danger of new Mid-East fighting grew today as a result of Premier David Ben-Gurion's threat to strike deep into Syria if Syrian attacks on Israeli border settlements continue.

(In Damascus, the director of the Syrian Civil Defense Corps ordered his personnel to "stand alert" for any emergency and report to their centers when they hear sirens.)

The white-haired Israeli leader told massed troops just back from war games in the Negev Tuesday that an attack against any settlement will be regarded as an attack against Tel Aviv or any other Israeli city.

"The arm of the Israeli defense force will continue to reach them (Syrians) and punish them in their fortified positions where they feel secure," he said.

"We'll do everything possible to maintain quiet. We'll demand that the United Nations make them aware of the gravity of the situation, but if they continue their attacks, the defense forces of Israel will give them a suitable answer."

Chinese Commies Massing Troops, Nehru Declares

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Premier Jawaharlal Nehru said today reports from the front indicate Red China is massing troops south of conquered Bomdila, within easy striking distance of the densely populated Assam Plains.

Nehru told India's Senate the Red invaders' concentration may be a preliminary to their promised withdrawal from some of the Indian territory they have seized. Other high officials were reported worried, however, about the threat of a possible new Communist attack.

(Red China's official radio reported that the invaders marched north from Bomdila Sunday. The same Peking broadcast, however, carried a report on conditions in the border community as of Tuesday.)

U.S. Ambassador John K. Galbraith was flying home today to report to Kennedy on the Indian situation. He was traveling by way of New York on a schedule that would get him to the U.S. capital tonight.

Nehru indicated that Indian troops might renew the border war if it appeared to be in India's best interest to fight.

"We have taken no action to impede the cease-fire, but we have given no guarantee for the future," he said. "It all depends on the way things develop."

The premier rejected Red China's peace terms in a speech to the lower house of Parliament Tuesday, but there was no indication that India had any immediate plans to renew the fighting.

As of Monday, the premier said, Indian casualties in the border war totaled 6,589—197 known dead, 291 wounded, 927 prisoners and 5,174 missing.

He said 12,161 Indians temporarily cut off by the Communist had made their way back to Indian lines.

Broadway Play Received By Full House at Palmer

By JOHN FETTER

The Broadway Theatre League parts of the balance for the starring parts. The other parts were undisplayed. In addition, Palmer long-announced season Tuesday night by sponsoring "A Show in the Dark," starring Annie Farge, to a full house at Palmer High.

The play was well received, mainly for the quips and apparently Parisian wit, which sprinkles the play with increasing frequency as it progresses.

The impetus of the play gathers slowly but elegantly through the three long acts, and it may have taken the audience a bit to get used to the form, which consists mostly of "interrogation" of a murder suspect, during which the nature of the characters involved is slowly unfolded.

Since the star system is followed, Annie Farge in the lead has most of the weight, although in the second act Robert Burr, in his fine irony as Monsieur Sevigne, provided the other side of the balance for the starring parts. The other parts were undisplayed. In addition, Palmer long-announced season Tuesday night by sponsoring "A Show in the Dark," starring Annie Farge, to a full house at Palmer High.

Annie Farge, however, has the ability of maintaining a high intensity in a long tenuous line, and she was able to arrest the attention of the audience which coughed during the first scene. A similar ability to maintain a high tension was shown in a different way by Robert Burr, as he portrayed the role of the banker.

The set was charming, although perhaps not quite in keeping with the stage direction of the story occurring in "the present," although that may be debated. The design was one of deliberately artistic faded old room in a slight state of disorder which successfully appeared picturesque.

Since this has been announced as the first in a series of "four current Broadway stage productions," the audience can demand the best. Whether it will be sold in its attention, as it is sold on the tickets, will be tested in the subsequent productions; with a comedy next on the list, then a musical, and last Judith Anderson in a reading from Macbeth and Medea.

Terrors Meet Tigers In South Central Tilt

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Palmer Coach Jerry Schroeder's cagers journey to Grand Junction Friday night for their first encounter in the South Central League with a non-league record of 1-3.

Two weeks ago the Terrors dropped a pair of tilts on their home court to South Denver, 61-30, and Denver Lincoln, 48-46. Their only triumph to date came last Friday in the Mile High City in the first game of the North Denver Tournament when they beat Golden in a three over-time period game, 52-48.

The Palmer cage team lost its third encounter and a bid for the North Denver Tourney in the finale against the host team by one point, 40-39, in the last nine seconds.

The boys performed effectively in the first half but they had never experienced an aggressive press," Schroeder stated after the game. "But I still fell strongly that this is potentially a good ball club."

The Terrors performed beautifully in the first half of that championship game, hitting from far out and running their offense smoothly.

It was in the latter half that the Terrors became erratic in passing and allowed their opposition to tie them up at a crucial moment.

With effective shooting by Walt Hylton, Dave Steward and Pat Berkheim, the Terrors nursed a considerable lead from five minutes in the first period until the final nine seconds.

The Terrors came unglued when the Vikings rammed them with a press defense in the last three minutes and Schroeder watched his team's 39-36 lead dwindle to 39-38 at the free throw lanes. With 41 seconds remaining in the tilt, North tied the Terrors up and rallied for the victory.

"Our lack of court experience showed in the final minutes of the game when we were stifled by their (North) full court press," the Palmer mentor further stated. "It's very difficult to understand how we could score 30 points in the first half and then only score nine in the last half," Schroeder said.

Alan Snyder, Steward and Hylton rallied in the third over-time period to clinch the Terrors' first win of the young season over a small Demon five.

Inexperience and the lack of poise were the contributing factors that resulted in Palmer's poor showing as they allowed their smaller opponents to out-play and outmaneuver them in the first half.

The third period was a complete offensive flop for the Terrors. The desperate Golden press took its toll on the Colorado Springs team to net a successful third period for the Demons.

It wasn't until the final period that the Terrors displayed some unity in their offensive and defense. They endeavored with pivotman drafted second baseman Ted Bobby Joe Williams rebounding Schroeder from Seattle and purchased infielder Ron Hunt from Austin.

The trade followed two other major moves made by the Red Sox. In the first, they sent pitcher Don Schwall and catcher Jim Pagliaroni to Pittsburgh for first baseman Dick Stuart and pitcher Jack Lamabe.

last minute 25-foot shot for another deadlock. Then Synder put the game on ice at the free throw lane in the third overtime period for a 52-48 victory.

When asked about his strategy planned for the Grand Junction game Friday, Schroeder commented, "We have to eliminate our offensive mistakes and perfect the pattern offense before changing over to something new. We have to develop poise before our offense proves successful and in the first game of the North Denver Tournament when they more games to counteract our lack of experience."

Packers Top NFL All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay already has locked up 10 positions on the 22-man National Football League All-Star team selected for The Associated Press although the Packers still have not clinched the Western Conference title.

The New York Giants, who meet the Western winners for the league championship Dec. 30 at Yankee Stadium, put four men on the club selected by a committee of sports writers and broadcasters from the 14 league cities. Detroit, trailing the Packers by one game with one to play, also placed four men on the team.

Green Bay wound up with full-back Jim Taylor, right end Ron Kramer, tackle Forrest Gregg, guard Jerry Kramer and center Jim Ringo from its offensive unit on the All-Star team. The Packers' defensive group contributed led Willie Davis, tackle Henry Jordan, linebackers Dan Currie and Bill Forester and corner back Herb Adderley.

Y. A. Tittle, the Giants' quarterback, and Del Shofner, his favorite passing target, made the offensive team along with big Roy Brown at tackle, Jimmy Patton, veteran safety man, was named on defense.

As befits a club that leads the league on defense, Detroit placed four men on that unit, led by 296-pound Roger Brown at tackle, middle linebacker Joe Schmidt, corner back Dick (Night Train) Lane and safety Yale Lary.

Jimmy Brown, Cleveland's full-back who normally is a must for any All-Star team, and Green Bay's injured Paul Hornung, player of the year in 1961, failed to make the team.

Jim Parker of Baltimore, used both at guard and tackle, was picked at guard.

Don Perkins of Dallas was named to a running back job along with Taylor, who had scored 18 touchdowns, tying the league record. Bobby Mitchell, the fleet back traded to Washington by Cleveland, made it at flanker back as the leading pass receiver. The 36-year-old Tittle, with his 27 touchdown passes, rounded out the starting back field.

Gino Marchetti, Baltimore's veteran defensive end, was the only "outsider" to crack the Green Bay-Detroit-New York axis on defense.

Okl. Returns To Practice For Orange Bowl

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma Sooners, who will meet Alabama in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1, return to the practice field today.

Three Sooners who missed several games during the season because of injuries, appeared ready to resume contact work.

Halfback Jackie Cowan, who gained 80 yards in 10 carries in Oklahoma's first two games before suffering a knee injury, has been running hard for two weeks. Cowan injured his knee in practice before the Texas game and underwent surgery Nov. 18.

Center Johnny Tatum, who had knee surgery Nov. 20, also is expected to be able to get in shape for the Orange Bowl contest as is guard Teddy Dodson, who sprained an ankle late in the season.

The availability of end Glen Condon, who bruised a knee in a voluntary drill last week, is questionable.

The Sooners plan three workouts this week and two next week before being dismissed for Christmas vacation. The team will leave for Miami on Christmas Day.

Jeff (Pork Chop) Mullins and Jay (Bird) Buckley provided enough ammunition to overcome a bad night by Art Heyman, who was limited to 13 points, as second-ranked Duke rapped Vanderbilt 90-70 Tuesday.

Buckley probably is the key to Duke's fortunes this season. Heyman and Mullins are proven commodities. But the 6-foot-10 junior has to prove he's tough enough to tangle underneath the boards.

Heyman was held to 13 points by the Commodores, but the Pork Chop-Bird combo took up with 22 points while breezing to a 75-46 victory over Virginia, Penn State did the same, 62-40 over Colgate and Rutgers snapped Columbia's winning streak at three, 88-68.

Gerry Ward held Yale ace Rick Kaminsky to four points and scored 15 as Boston College nipped the Elis 59-57 and Wake Forest limited Billy Hoy to three points while breezing to a 75-46 victory over St. Joseph's Pa. 221. Vandy sophomore Roger Schurig took scoring honors with 30 points.

Only one other top-ten team was in action. Sixth-ranked West Virginia, led by peppery Jim McCormick, outclassed Richmond 78-59 in a Southern Conference game. In another Southern game, VMI nipped George Washington 74-73.

Elsewhere on the conference scene, North Carolina State used a jump shot by John Key with 2 seconds remaining in overtime for a 76-74 decision over Maryland, and Vermont defeated New Hampshire 78-73 in a Yankee Conference clash.

In other top games, Notre Dame sophomores Walt Sahm and Larry Sheffield scored 27 and 24 points, respectively, as the Irish whipped Western Michigan 82-68, furnished by the local Bob Bishop sophomore James King sank a Band. Dress will be ski clothes.

Thunderbirds to Attempt to Halt Basketball Domination by South

"We're beginning to come around," Wasson's Dick Westbay said last Saturday night after his Thunderbirds had just completed a two game sweep from rough Denver area opponents.

Westbay was obviously pleased with the second half performances that notched wins over Cherry Creek and West Denver. But he was quick to point out that the team still was falling victim to serious lapses at times and added that steady play will be necessary if the T-Birds are to be successful in the South Central League race.

There was not time to savor the non-league successes, the Friday night Thunderbirds open their conference schedule against Pueblo South at the Palmer Gymnasium. It's no secret that there's not a team on the schedule they'd rather whip than the Colts.

Bill Brown's fast-breaking South squads have had their own year when they were being made effective by such stars as Bobby Graham, Dan Trujillo, and Mike Lynch, all now departed. Wasson the Colts have not missed going to the state tournament. They won the crown in the 59-60 season only to lose out in the first round at Denver. The following year they finished second to Palmer in the league standings but went on to the state tourney thru a playoff.

That year marked the high point as they finished second, losing a one-point overtime decision to George Washington of Denver in the state championship finals. Last season South again won the SCL title but fell victim to Manual in the semi-finals of AAA state competition.

Wasson's luck has been of the opposite variety. After a sub-par opening season, the Thunderbirds came up with a strong team in the winter of 1960-61 but lost a chance to tie for second place and a possible shot at the state when star Bob Joyce was felled with an ankle sprain in the final week of the season.

Then last winter, a Thunderbird team made up mostly of juniors shocked the Colorado prep world by upending South in Pueblo at midseason and holding on to the SCL lead until the final couple of weeks. In a disastrous turn of events, however, Wasson lost games to Centennial, Grand Junction, and South in succession and are presently accounting for about 45 points a game. Tait tops the scoring with 64 points in the four contests for a 16.0 average. Greene, despite a night two weeks ago when he was held to a single field goal, is still averaging 14.3 with 57 points and Shelton has 55. The remaining starters, Ken Charles and Bob Stanley, are far behind but both have shown improvement in the past two outings.

Tait also tops the squad in rebounding with 48, over twice the number picked off by anyone else. Shelton, Greene, and Stanley follow in that order.

This year, for the first time, Wasson is favored to win the SCL crown. And right away that same old stumbling block presents itself. South has lost only once in three starts and holds victories over good squads from Arvada and La Junta.

South's formula has not changed. The Colts still run for the entire 32 minutes. They throw up a full court press from the start, attempting to confuse the opposition, and force mistakes that set up easy baskets. They throw passes the length of the floor and fast break continually with the idea being to put a team out of the contest quickly.

But this time, the Thunderbirds should be ready. Virtually this same Wasson team worked against these same tactics last year when they were being made effective by such stars as Bobby Graham, Dan Trujillo, and Mike Lynch, all now departed. Wasson has the edge in size and talent this time and can match the Colts' speed. If the Thunderbirds come up with one of their top efforts, the end of South's long reign may be in sight.

Leading the way against the Colts will be Westbay's trio of hot-handed returning regulars, Karl Tait, Darrell Greene, and Vic Shelton have resumed where they left off a year ago and the three immediately after the purchase.

Strict Rules May Delay Telegraphy

LONDON (AP) — The National Association of Overseas Telegraphists said Tuesday its members had been instructed to work strictly according to rules from Dec. 19 to 26 in a jurisdictional dispute with the Post Office, which controls the telegraph system.

By complying minutely with every rule in the book laid down by the General Post Office, the association's 1,500 members would cause heavy delays in overseas cables moving in and out of Britain, said an association spokesman.

The association issued the order because, it said, the General Post Office refused to recognize the association and give it negotiating rights.

NOT BAD FOR FIRST TRY — Jack, the Mexican burro at the Baltimore zoo, takes a critical look at his first attempt at abstract art. Zoo director Arthur Watson gave Jack his chance after Khrushchev said that one isn't able to tell if abstract art is drawn or "smeared by the tail of a donkey." The painting, called "Black Whisk," was shown to art instructor Wilson Binebrink, who praised the painting. Watson plans more tail paintings for Jack after the summer fly season returns.

Versatile Roles Shown by Actor On Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 18 years ago, character actor Frank McHugh played the role of a priest in a movie called "Going My Way," starring Bing Crosby and Barry Fitzgerald.

Tonight actor Frank McHugh will be back on "Going My Way," only this time it is an ABC television program—and he plays a safe cracker's assistant.

McHugh, who started in show business in his native McKeesport, Pa., as a youngster, has contributed his talents as a comedy character actor to literally hundreds of plays, silent movies, talk ies and, now, television. In the not seem to find material for them and they were a plot problem.

Terry Moore, who plays the ranch-owner's daughter, Connie, drew a kinder fate. She will get married and move away.

Meanwhile, the heroic character Jim Redigo, played by star Richard Egan, will be promoted from ranch manager to one-third owner. Now he can make some tough decisions without asking permission from his employers. And the places of the two vanishing women will be taken by a couple of males, who will play ranch hands.

And don't think NBC won't pull a packet of mail—even flowers—from the fans who become very upset when a favorite character dies. At least that has been the experience of the day-time serial producers who recently have been killing off characters when an actor left the cast.

John K. M. McCaffery, a New York newscaster for NBC's local station, will be host on ABC's forthcoming "Alumni Fun," a senior version of CBS' "College Bowl" starting Sunday, Jan. 20. That's intra-network cooperation.

The die has been cast on NBC's "Empire"—Anne Seymour's dying, that is. Sometime early in March the character of Lucia Garret, matriarch of that huge, rich New Mexico spread, will sicken and pass away. Ironically, the episode with the death scene will be the heaviest role fine actress Seymour has had in the modern western.

The producers of the show decided to get rid of its two women characters because writers could Architect Selby Wheeler of Denver said he expects to have working drawings and specifications completed in time to call for bids March 1. They would be opened about April 1.

School Supt. C. L. Retlesdorf said it is planned to open the 1-story masonry and steel building for classes in September 1964. The structure will have 128,000 square feet of area.

'Authority' Tells About Proper Gifts for Men

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Men like money and they like to receive it for Christmas. They also like sporting goods and hobby equipment, watches and clocks, wool sweaters, good clothing and luggage. They don't like flashy ties, ill-fitting socks, cheap whisky, toilet goods that smell like women's perfume or wrong brands of cigarettes and cigars.

They think it is in poor taste to send them gaudy jewelry, small gift certificates which mean they have to put out money of their own to get what they want and gifts which haven't been thought out very carefully—wrong sizes and colors and smoking accessories for a non-smoker.

The authority for the above statements is American Fashion Views, an organization which carried out a survey of husbands, students and career men on what they liked best and least among their presents.

There were a number of paradoxes. One man said he liked whisky for a present and thought religious items were in bad taste. Another said he preferred religious items and thought sending whisky was in bad taste. Which, the organization says, means you should study a man before sending him a present.

Sixty-six per cent of the men questioned listed hobby and sporting goods of all categories as their favorite presents, but only if the gift was their own hobby or sport. Forty-eight per cent listed "fine wool sweaters" and money. Another 44 per cent listed such leather goods as wallets and belts. Thirty per cent listed liquor, food and cheese and 29 per cent bar and smoking accessories, shirts and sport shirts.

The list of preferred gifts dwindled in popularity from books and magazines through mufflers, socks, handkerchiefs, stationery, pens, robes, pajamas, underwear, cufflinks, tie tacks, tie clips, slip pers, sports jackets. Near the end friends gave the best gifts and they listed the greatest Christmas gift blunder as giving the same gift every year, too-expensive gifts, prank gifts, pornographic books, combs and brushes for bald men and smoking accessories for non-smokers.

There was a wistful note, too—gifts always wanted but not received. Of the men questioned, 5.5 per cent wanted cars, 5.5 per cent wanted vacation trips. Others were looking for but did not receive stereo sets, money, better One man wanted a permit to on whether they liked monograms leave school and another wanted but a strong minority said no be-to return to school. There also cause they made gifts impossible were disappointments over failure to receive a star sapphire ring Men though parents, wives and and a swimming pool.

Among the gifts men said they would never use were "Christmas ties," too big cuff links and such assorted items as hand warmer, bongo drums and a canary.

They were about evenly divided on whether they liked monograms leave school and another wanted but a strong minority said no be-to return to school. There also cause they made gifts impossible were disappointments over failure to receive a star sapphire ring Men though parents, wives and and a swimming pool.

ITS RELIABILITY COMES FROM ITS QUALITY

A nutshell description of Chevrolet trucks could be "Trucks That Work". It's not exactly earthshaking but it says a mouthful. It's what Chevrolet trucks are best known for—their reliability. Ready to work, day after day, whenever you are.

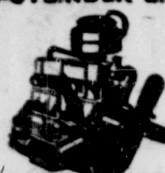

You can't build trucks that perform like this if you don't put quality into engine, chassis and body. Chevrolet does: double-wall construction, insulated cab, select-wood body floor, chain-supported tailgate, ladder-type frame, the careful attention to upholstery and finish. It's this kind of quality that makes any Chevrolet truck—from pickup to heavyweight tandem—worth more on the average at trade-in!
